

H. M. Manns Christian Romance Boxed Set

Sisters of Grace:When lightning strikes the roof of Grace Apostolic Faith Church in Grace, Alabama, during a tropical storm, Andrew Hunt stops to fix it. Once he does, he finds himself immersed in the middle an almost wedding and a flood of Gray family drama. Andrew had left Virginia to pursue a youth pastor position at Grace, a small, all-black country church, but Reverend Gray only grudgingly uses him as the churchs handyman. While keeping the church from falling apart with prayer, plaster, and Plumbers Goop, Andrew encounters Reverend Grays daughters, who are as different as night and day: younger sister Elizabeth Gray, single mother of Paul, who craves her familys forgiveness and prays for a good man; and older sister Mary, five times engaged--and disengaged--who has been fruitlessly searching for a holy helpmate she can control. Over the course of only eight eventful days, miracles abound as the rain streams down, and Andrew--and both sisters--find love again. Using his signature humor in abundance in Sisters of Grace, H. M. Mann proves that Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it (Song of Solomon 8:7). Beside the Still Waters:North Carolinian Claire Kelly vacations most summers at Aylen Lake in Ontario, Canada, near the tiny town of Barrys Bay. On a not-so-chance visit to town, Claire meets Mitchell Mac Macdonald, a blissfully single wood sculptor and fishing guide who would rather look for wood to carve or a new lake to fish than look anywhere for love. When Claire blazes into Macs life, Macs world--and eventually Claires--will never be the same. Told with humor, warmth, and soul, and infused with heavy doses of old school church music, Beside the Still Waters will keep you believing that Gods love is always possible, even between two people who arent looking for it. P&Q:Multicultural romance author J. J.

Murray offers this modern, Christian, experimental, and comic recreation of the Greek myth of Cupid and Psyche. P & Q satirizes the so-called beautiful people of this world. Follow Christian supermodel Ginger Psyche Dane and supermodel Quentin Q Dionne as they try to find true love despite the Qs infidelities, the anger of Qs mother, Venus, and the utter foolishness of the American media.
