

Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Ireland's Ancient Astronomers

Around 6,000 years ago a most sophisticated and enigmatic community of people began to arise on the island of Ireland. They were the megalithic builders of the Stone Age, cunning engineers and master astronomers who systematically assembled a vast calendrical and astronomical scheme which would stand intact over five millennia. Today, the individual monuments which each form a part of that complicated astronomical assembly lie decaying in the landscape, straddling the Boyne river, which in ancient times was named after the Milky Way galaxy and was considered its earthly equivalent. Archaeologists have been probing individual sites over the last fifty years, and have been revealing intriguing information, carvings, artefacts and dating material which, as well as answering many questions, pose even more about the purpose and genesis of these great monuments. Perhaps more importantly, some of the ancient stone sites continue to function more than five millennia after they were constructed, with famous examples, such as Newgrange and Dowth, featuring alignments to the Winter Solstice sun. In Island of the Setting Sun a greater story of their genesis can finally be told. As these sites awaken from the slumber of five millennia, we can more definitively describe their true purpose - to track time, vast periods of time, to bring the sky down on to the ground in a grand astronomical scheme. The authors exploration of the sky-ground system is taken from an array of perspectives, most notably through the ancient stories about these places - some of which may be as ancient as the sites themselves. Within the complex layers of myth, folklore and placename stories lies a concealed astronomical language. Interpreting these coded cosmological messages, the authors have found that together the landscape, the astronomy and the myth reveal the true intent of the megalithic master builders of a time when giants were said to rule the land. In this lavishly illustrated book many disparate things are explored, including the invasion myths of Ireland, the link between the ancient astronomers and St. Patrick, the pleasant plain among the stars, the true inspiration behind Newgranges white quartz facade, the migratory patterns of Whooper Swans, the female reproductive system and its importance to the mound-builders, the eight-year Moon-Venus cycle, and a plethora of stories about such things as underwater spears, giant hounds, tragic drownings, cruel murders, vast battles, strange animals and the Irish cyclops. In short, Island of the Setting Sun provides a revision of how we look at prehistory in Ireland.

Island of the Setting Sun has 11 ratings and 2 reviews. Mistletoe said: I highly recommend this book for basic insights into the religion and science of - 7 sec[PDF] Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Irelands Ancient Astronomers [Download] Full Available in: Paperback. Island of the Setting Sun is the story of the sophisticated and enigmatic people who lived in Ireland around 6000 years.Island Of The Setting Sun In Search Of Irelands Ancient Astronomers, Used Non-fiction Books For Sale in Ballincollig, Cork, Ireland for 10.00 euros on .Anthony Murphy is the editor of the Drogheda Leader. A photographer, graphic artist and avid amateur astronomer. Richard Moore (49) is an artist, workingBuy Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Irelands Ancient Astronomers Revised edition by Anthony Murphy, Richard Moore (ISBN: 9781905785476) from - 19 secDOWNLOAD [PDF] Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Ireland s Ancient Astronomers Pre Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Irelands Ancient Astronomers (Paperback) community of people began to arise on the island of Ireland. Island of the Setting Sun : In Search of Irelands Ancient Astronomers engineers and master astronomers who systematically assembled a - 7 secWatch [PDF] Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Irelands Ancient Astronomers [Read] Full - 9 min - Uploaded by mythicalirelandhttp:// Island of the Setting Sun author Anthony Murphy gives his first A short article about Mythical Ireland manager, author and Island of the Setting Sun: In Search of Irelands Ancient Astronomers (with Richard - 7 sec Now http:///?book=1905785054Download Island of the Setting Sun: In Search