

The Great Disruption: Why the Climate Crisis Will Bring On the End of Shopping and the Birth of a New World

Its time to stop just worrying about climate change, says Paul Gilding. Instead, we need to brace for impact, because global crisis is no longer avoidable; we have come to the end of a world economy based on consumption and waste, where we live beyond the means of our planets resources. The Great Disruption offers a stark and unflinching look at the challenge humanity faces-yet also a deeply optimistic message. The coming decades will see loss, suffering, and conflict as our planetary overdraft is paid; however, they will also bring out the best humanity can offer: compassion, innovation, resilience, and adaptability. Gilding tells us how to fight-and win-what he calls the one-degree war to prevent catastrophic warming of the earth, and how to start today.Praise for The Great Disruption: Gilding offers a clear-eyed and moving assessment of our predicament, but more important, he offers a plausible way forward and good reasons to think we will rise to the occasion. -David W. Orr, author of Hope Is an Imperative Paul Gilding offers some excellent insights into how we might weather that which we can no longer completely prevent-and how we can still prevent that which we wont be able to weather. If youre planning to stick around for the twenty-first century, this might be a useful book to consult. -Bill McKibben, author of Eearth, and founder of 350.org
